

AMER SPORTS

Sustainability and Strategic Report Revision

Grace O'Hanlon, Alida Menickelli, Gloria Hardesty, Stanley Yü-fei

Sustainability Report - External Document Double materiality assessment

Double materiality assessment

Material topics

Amer Sports conducted its double materiality assessment (DMA) in 2023, driven by our purpose, values, and business strategy. Double materiality is required by the European Sustainability Reporting Standards (ESRS). The review of the DMA is planned for early 2025, including the validation of sub-topics.

Objective and scope of the double materiality assessment

Amer Sports' materiality assessment identifies and prioritizes our material sustainability topics. The process involved evaluating the environmental and social sustainability impacts, risks, and opportunities of the business. Through the DMA, we gained insights to steer our actions for future success, including aligning business strategies, targets, and governance accordingly.

The assessment covered the entire Amer Sports value chain, spanning both our own activities and those in the upstream and downstream segments of the value chain, across all operating countries.

The assessment included two perspectives – impact materiality and financial materiality:

- Impact materiality:
What impact does our business have on people and the environment?
- Financial materiality:
What are the Environmental, Social, and Governance -related business risks and opportunities that have a financial impact on our business?

Our double materiality assessment considered both negative and positive impacts, as well as actual and potential impacts. This encompassed the scale, scope, and likelihood of risks and opportunities, including an evaluation of the likelihood of occurrence and the size of potential financial effects associated with business risks and opportunities. The process was also informed by Amer Sports' due diligence process and focused on the highest risks of adverse impacts.

The assessment of the material impacts, risks, and opportunities was conducted over a medium-term

Original Text: Mispellings?

Amer Sports conducted its double materiality assessment (DMA) in 2023, driven by our purpose, values, and business strategy. Double materiality is required by the European Sustainability Reporting Standards (ESRS). The review of the DMA is planned for early 2025, including the validation of sub-topics.

Revised Text

Amer Sports conducted its double materiality assessment (DMA) in 2023, driven by our purpose, values, and business strategy. Double materiality is required by the European Sustainability Reporting Standards (ESRS). The review of the DMA and the validation of sub topics is scheduled for early 2025.

Objective and Scope

Amer Sports' materiality assessment identifies and prioritizes our material sustainability topics. The process to create this assessment involved evaluating the environmental and social sustainability impacts, risks, and opportunities of the business.

Through the DMA, we gained insights to steer our actions for future success in aligning business strategies, targets, and governance accordingly. The assessment covered the entire Amer Sports value chain, spanning both our own activities and those in the upstream and downstream segments of the value chain, across all operating countries.

- There are two perspectives throughout the assessment – impact materiality and financial materiality: •

Impact materiality

- What impact does our business have on people and the environment?

Financial materiality

- What are the Environmental, Social, and Governance -related business risks and opportunities that have a financial impact on our business?

Negative and Positive, Actual and Potential Impacts

- Encompasses the scale, scope, and likelihood of risks and opportunities, including an evaluation of the likelihood of occurrence and the size of potential financial effects associated with business risks and opportunities. The process was also informed by Amer Sports' due diligence process and focused on the highest risks of adverse impacts. The assessment of the material impacts, risks, and opportunities was conducted over a medium-term

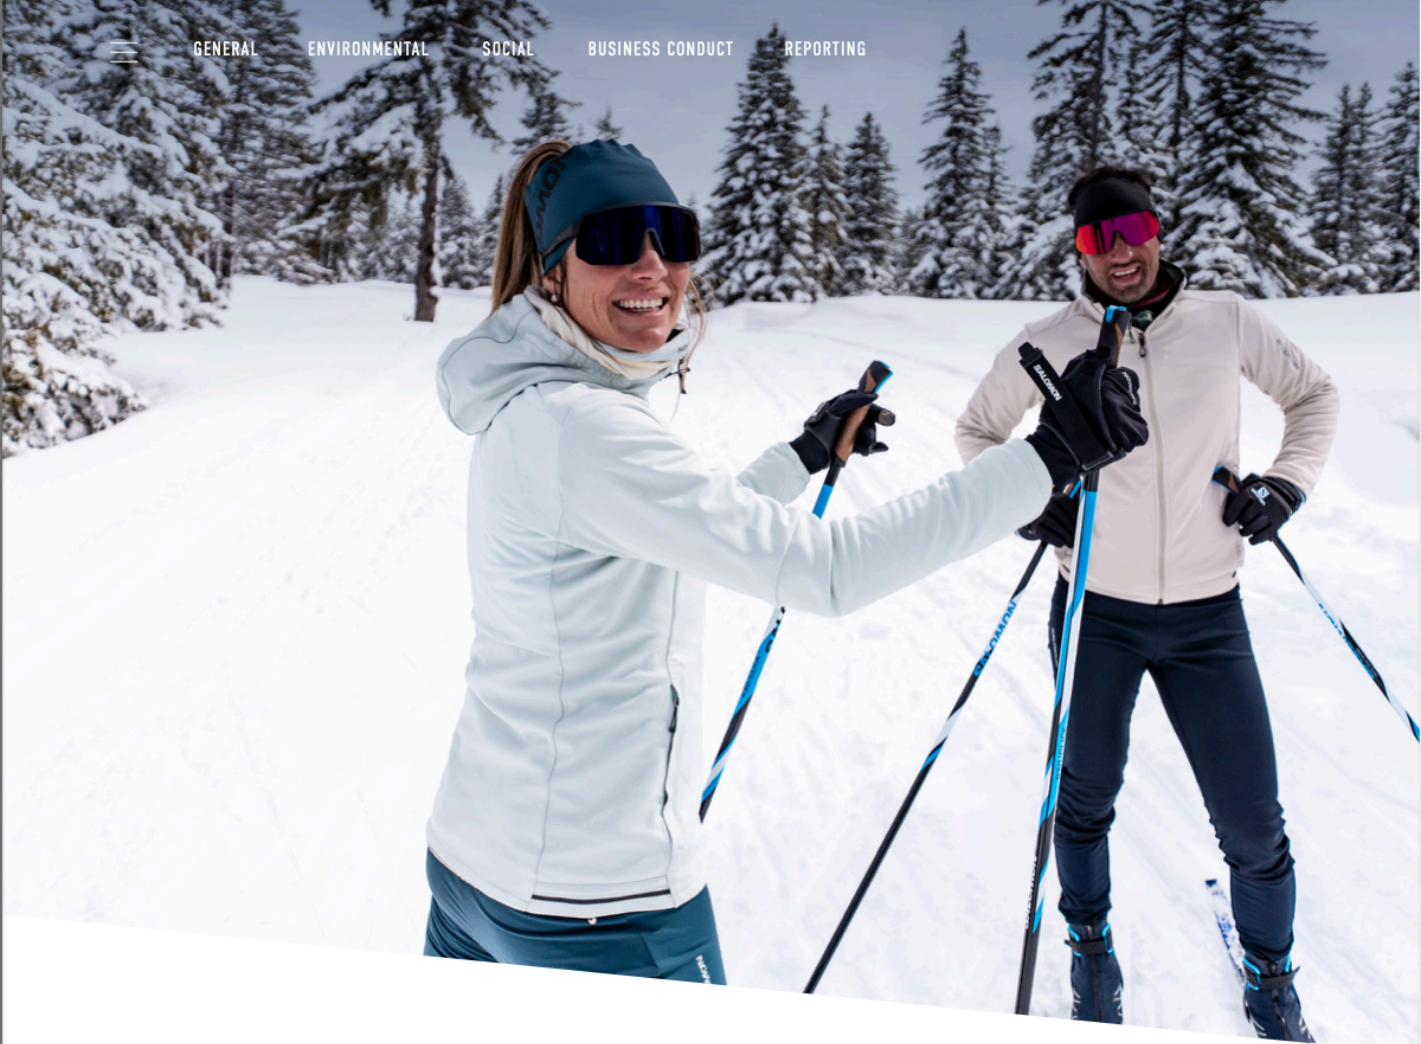

Sustainability Report - External Document

What to look for in 2025

- To enhance the information of the text, bullet points can be used but most bullet point section begins with “We Will”
- Each section can begin with “We Will” and be highlighted and give more of a highlight to what they are planning to do in the upcoming year

“We Will”

Make text stand out more

What to look for in 2025

- We will review our double materiality assessment (DMA), which defines our key topics for reporting, updates our sustainability strategy, and creates a structure for our sustainability reporting aligned with ESRS requirements.
- We will continue driving climate and decarbonization initiatives as part of our Climate Program, while working to increase renewable energy usage in our operations and define the preferred materials for hardgoods.
- We ensure compliance with evolving sustainability regulations through active monitoring and comprehensive compliance programs, addressing specific regulations such as CSDDD and ecodesign.
- To complement our sustainability policy framework, we will finalize our Environmental Policy and Circularity Policy.
- In our own workforce, we will focus on building awareness through training programs and communications, particularly in areas such as DE&I and health and safety topics.
- We will continue raising the bar in our supply chain by reviewing our Supplier Code of Conduct (formerly Ethical Policy) to include relevant aspects. We will also continue implementing the principles of fair labor and responsible sourcing from the Fair Labor Association (FLA).

Sustainability Report - External Document

What to look for in 2025

We Will review our double materiality assessment (DMA), which defines our key topics for reporting, updates our sustainability strategy, and creates a structure for our sustainability reporting aligned with ESRS requirements.

We will continue driving climate and decarbonization initiatives as part of our Climate Program, while working to increase renewable energy usage in our operations and define the preferred materials for hardgoods.

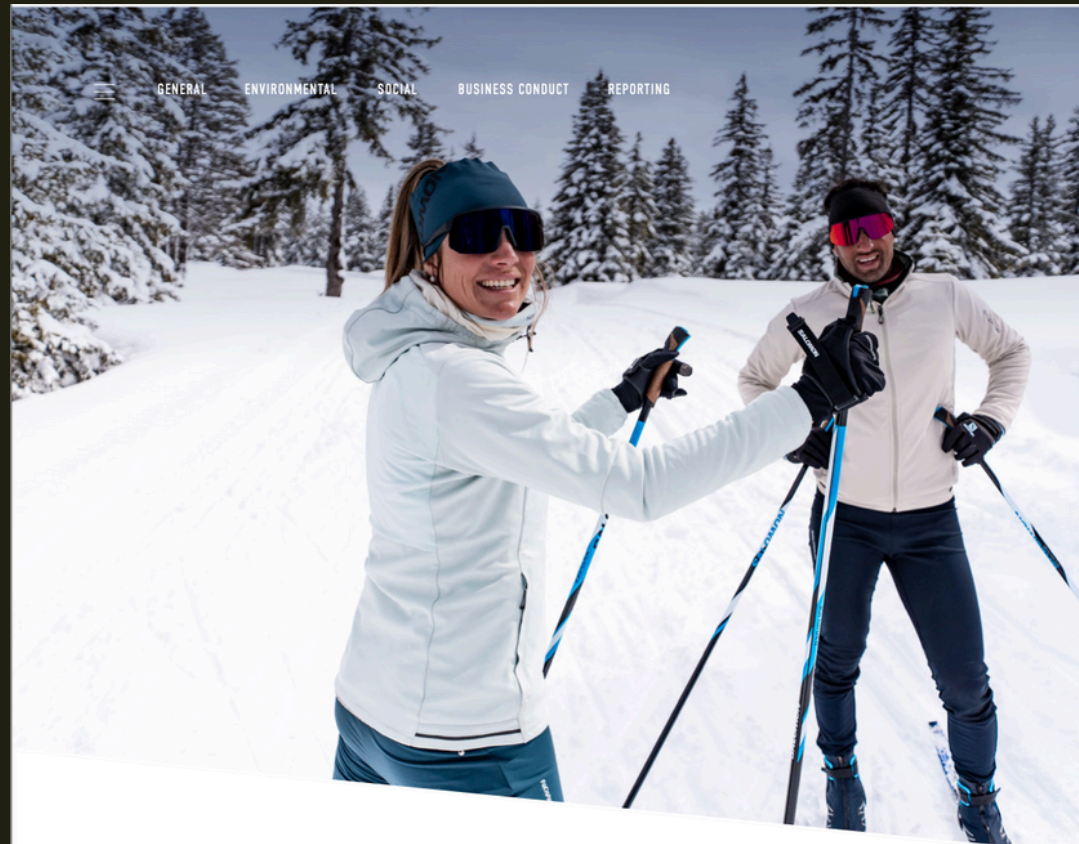

We Will ensure compliance with evolving sustainability regulations through active monitoring and comprehensive compliance programs, addressing specific regulations such as CSDDD and ecodesign.

We Will finalize our Environmental Policy and Circularity Policy, to complement our sustainability policy framework,

We Will focus on building awareness through training programs and communications, particularly in areas such as DE&I and health and safety topics.

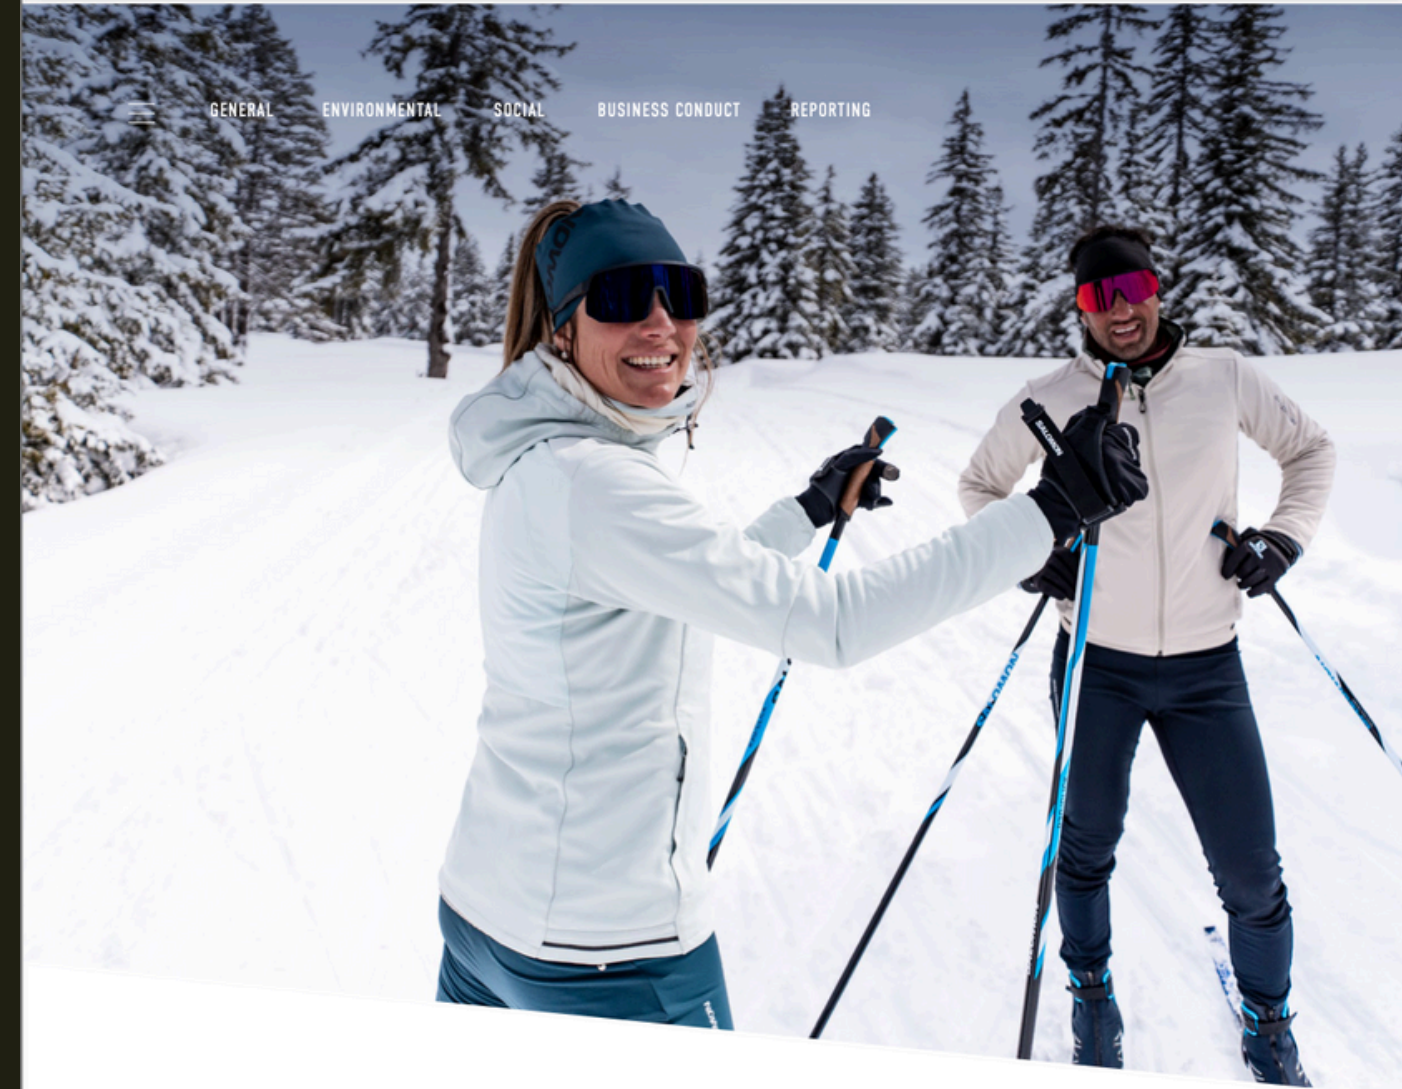

We Will continue raising the bar in our supply chain by reviewing our Supplier Code of Conduct (formerly Ethical Policy) to include relevant aspects. We will also continue implementing the principles of fair labor and responsible sourcing from the Fair Labor Association (FLA).

Finished report

What to look for in 2025

- We will review our double materiality assessment (DMA), which defines our key topics for reporting, updates our sustainability strategy, and creates a structure for our sustainability reporting aligned with ESRS requirements.
- We will continue driving climate and decarbonization initiatives as part of our Climate Program, while working to increase renewable energy usage in our operations and define the preferred materials for hardgoods.
- We ensure compliance with evolving sustainability regulations through active monitoring and comprehensive compliance programs, addressing specific regulations such as CSDDD and ecodesign.
- To complement our sustainability policy framework, we will finalize our Environmental Policy and Circularity Policy.
- In our own workforce, we will focus on building awareness through training programs and communications, particularly in areas such as DE&I and health and safety topics.
- We will continue raising the bar in our supply chain by reviewing our Supplier Code of Conduct (formerly Ethical Policy) to include relevant aspects. We will also continue implementing the principles of fair labor and responsible sourcing from the Fair Labor Association (FLA).

What to look for in 2025

We Will review our double materiality assessment (DMA), which defines our key topics for reporting, updates our sustainability strategy, and creates a structure for our sustainability reporting aligned with ESRS requirements.

We Will continue driving climate and decarbonization initiatives as part of our Climate Program, while working to increase renewable energy usage in our operations and define the preferred materials for hardgoods.

We Will ensure compliance with evolving sustainability regulations through active monitoring and comprehensive compliance programs, addressing specific regulations such as CSDDD and ecodesign.

We Will finalize our Environmental Policy and Circularity Policy, to complement our sustainability policy framework,

We Will focus on building awareness through training programs and communications, particularly in areas such as DE&I and health and safety topics.

We Will continue raising the bar in our supply chain by reviewing our Supplier Code of Conduct (formerly Ethical Policy) to include relevant aspects. We will also continue implementing the principles of fair labor and responsible sourcing from the Fair Labor Association (FLA).

Strategic Report- Internal Document

Strategy

Inspiring consumers in their effort to live healthier and more sustainably lies at the heart of our business. Our strategy leads the way.

We are in the perfect position to unlock the full potential of our brands and people.

PORTFOLIO OF

10

brands

GLOBAL COMMUNITY OF

13,400

employees

PRODUCTS SOLD IN

100+ countries

NORDIC ROOTS WITH

75 years of history

Amer Sports strategy

We are riding the crest of two of the most prominent trends of our time: health and longevity, and sustainable consumption. Inspiring consumers in their effort to live healthier and more sustainably lies at the heart of our business.

As an engaged owner of some of the world's most recognized and respected sports and outdoor brands, Amer Sports is in the perfect position to unlock the full potential of our brands and our people, respond to consumer needs, and exceed expectations.

The Amer Sports strategy builds on our heritage and on the choices we have already made.

Our vision is to become the global leader in premium sports and outdoor brands. Our brands are best-in-class market-shaping leaders that set the standard for quality, performance, added value, and brand experience.

We want to be a positive force in the world and build a sustainability culture that will encourage all of us to think bigger, go further, and be better. We will continue to demonstrate accountability and transparency throughout the value chain, from supply to sales.

We attract and unite the best consumer-minded people in our industry to inspire all to explore and experience the joy of sports and lead better, healthier lives.

We will grow globally through

- Continued market leading product innovation
- Growing brand awareness globally
- Optimizing tailored, consumer focused go-to-market strategies
- Expanding geographic footprint in large markets with high consumer demand
- Driving profitability through gross margin expansion and operating leverage

Purpose and values

Our purpose and values unite us across brands and geographies, unlocking our collective power to grow and succeed together.

READ MORE

Sustainability

We want to be a positive force in the world and build a sustainability culture that will enable us to think bigger, go further, and better.

READ MORE

Strategic Report

In adjusting the organization of the strategy report, the order of information was rearranged to better reflect the company's strategic motives. The report now begins by highlighting how the company builds upon its heritage and the shift in focus toward sustainability.

The document then transitions to the company's vision and the ways in which Amer Sports is progressing toward achieving that vision. These sections create the foundation for outlining the ways the company intends to grow, and puts greater emphasis on their accountability and transparency.

Visually and structurally, additional spacing was introduced between sections to enhance readability and clarity. The purpose and values document links, along with a company image, were repositioned before the profitability strategies to ensure that employees can easily access the materials that directly impact the company's growth strategies within its mission and values.

We are riding the crest of two of the most prominent trends of our time: health and longevity, and sustainable consumption. Inspiring consumers in their effort to live healthier and more sustainably lies at the heart of our business.

As an engaged owner of some of the world's most recognized and respected sports and outdoor brands, Amer Sports is in the perfect position to unlock the full potential of our brands and our people, respond to consumer needs, and exceed expectations.

The Amer Sports strategy builds on our heritage and on the choices we have already made.

Our vision is to become the global leader in premium sports and outdoor brands. Our brands are best-in-class market-shaping leaders that set the standard for quality, performance, added value, and brand experience.

We want to be a positive force in the world and build a sustainability culture that will encourage all of us to think bigger, go further, and be better. We will continue to demonstrate accountability and transparency throughout the value chain, from supply to sales.

We attract and unite the best consumer-minded people in our industry to inspire all to explore and experience the joy of sports and lead better, healthier lives.

We will grow globally through

- Continued market leading product innovation
- Growing brand awareness globally
- Optimizing tailored, consumer focused go-to-market strategies
- Expanding geographic footprint in large markets with high consumer demand
- Driving profitability through gross margin expansion and operating leverage

Strategic Report - Revised Text

The heart of Amer Sports lies in our consumers' drive and effort to live healthier and more sustainable lives. Our strategy leads the way.

Amer Sports Strategy

-

The heart of Amer Sports lies in our consumers' drive and effort to live healthier and more sustainable lives. We continuously build on our heritage and grow from the choices we have already made. Our business is guided by two of the most prominent trends of our time: health and longevity, and sustainable consumption.

Our vision is to become the global leader in premium sports and outdoor brands. Our 13,400 global employees and best-in-class market-shaping leaders are the reason we set the standard for quality, performance, added value, and brand experience.

As we grow, we strive to be a positive force in the world through our continued focus on building a sustainability culture that encourages us to think bigger, be better, and go further. As an engaged owner of Amer Sports, we continue to demonstrate accountability and transparency throughout the value chain, from supply to sales.

We unite and attract the most thoughtful consumer-minded people in our industry who recognize our goals, inspire all to explore, and experience the joy of sports through strengthened, healthier lives.

Amer Sports represents 10 of world's most recognized and respected sports and outdoor brands, and we are perfectly positioned to unlock the full potential of business and people through responding to consumer needs, and exceeding expectations.

We will grow globally through:

- Continued market leading product innovation
- Growing brand awareness globally
- Optimizing tailored, consumer focused go-to-market strategies
- Expanding geographic footprint in large markets with high consumer demand
- Driving profitability through gross margin expansion and operating leverage

Rhetorical Analysis Overview

Rhetorical Situation Analysis & Justification

The purpose of this revision project is to enhance the clarity, accessibility, and persuasive strength of Amer Sports' communication materials.

Both the Sustainability Report and Strategic Report were evaluated using the five rhetorical elements: purpose, audience, context, genre, and exigence.

Our revisions focused on aligning each document's language, tone, and structure with its target audience and organizational goals.

By identifying weaknesses in tone, structure, and visual hierarchy, we redesigned both documents to strengthen Amer Sports' professional and sustainable image.

The goal was not to change the company's message, but to refine how that message is delivered and received.

External Document Analysis: Sustainability Report

Purpose: To communicate Amer Sports' sustainability commitments and future plans transparently to external stakeholders, including investors, partners, and consumers.

Audience: Primarily external readers who value corporate responsibility, environmental impact, and compliance with new sustainability standards (ESRS).

Context: Produced under growing global pressure for ESG accountability and transparency within the sports industry.

Genre: A formal sustainability report — professional, data-driven, and visually balanced to maintain credibility.

Exigence: The need to correct inconsistencies, outdated phrasing, and weak engagement in the original text. Revisions used the “We Will” structure to create a more active, forward-looking tone.

The redesign improves reader engagement, enhances motivation, and positions Amer Sports as a brand with actionable sustainability goals.

Internal Document Analysis: Strategic Report

Purpose: To inform and inspire internal employees about Amer Sports' long-term strategy, mission, and values while reinforcing organizational unity.

Audience: Internal stakeholders — employees, executives, and managers who need a clear understanding of company goals and strategic direction.

Context: Shared in an internal environment that values innovation, collaboration, and transparency.

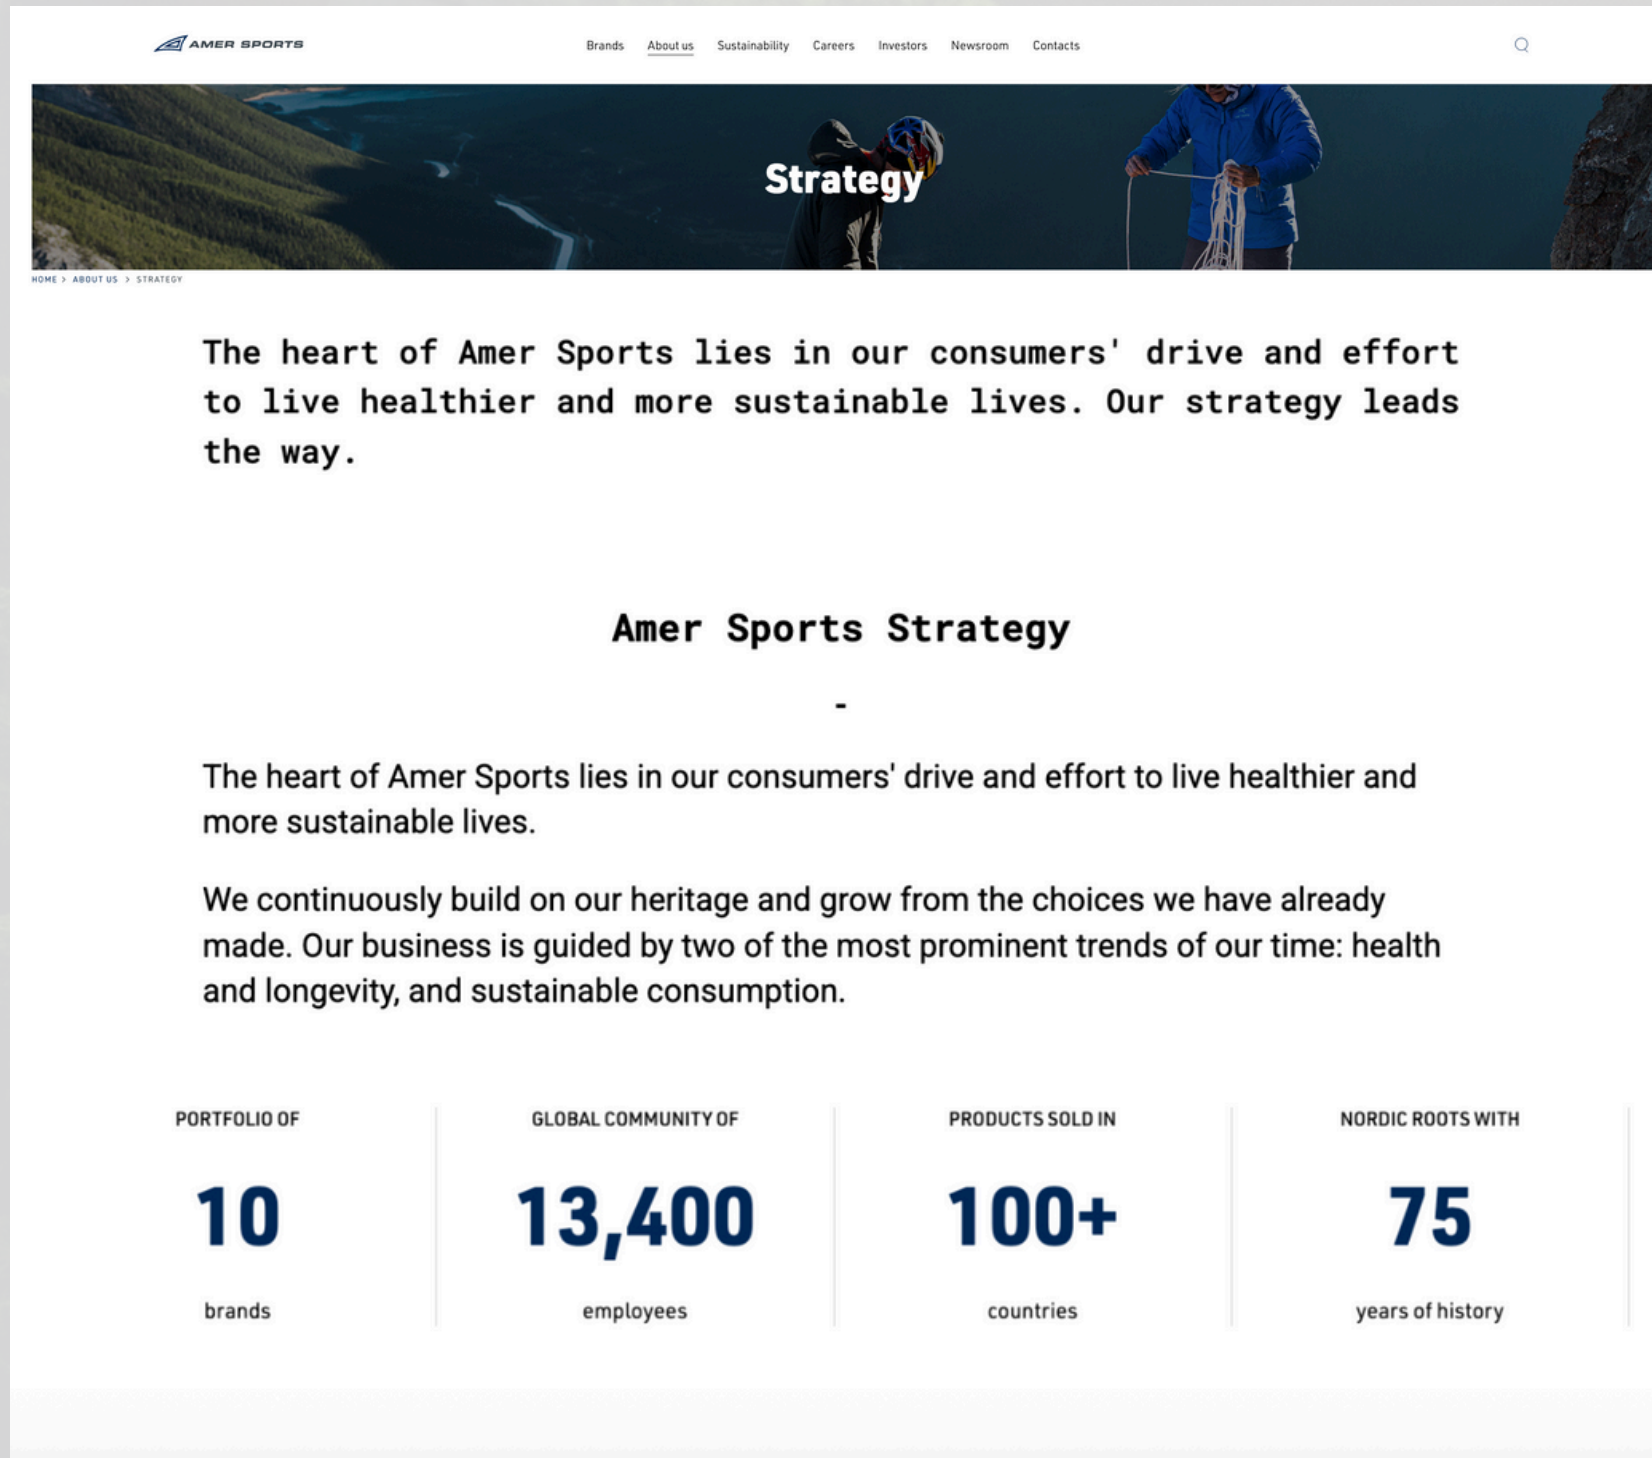

Genre: A strategic communication document meant to align employees with corporate objectives and sustainability priorities.

Exigence: The original report presented dense paragraphs and weak transitions. Revisions reorganized content to foreground heritage, vision, and growth, using improved spacing and structure for clarity.

The redesigned version now reads more cohesively, visually communicates hierarchy, and strengthens internal engagement with the company's strategic direction.

Finished report

Our vision is to become the global leader in premium sports and outdoor brands. Our 13,400 global employees and best-in-class market-shaping leaders are the reason we set the standard for quality, performance, added value, and brand experience.

As we grow, we strive to be a positive force in the world through our continued focus on building a sustainability culture that encourages us to think bigger, be better, and go further. As an engaged owner of Amer Sports, we continue to demonstrate accountability and transparency throughout the value chain, from supply to sales.

We unite and attract the most thoughtful consumer-minded people in our industry who recognize our goals, inspire all to explore, and experience the joy of sports through strengthened, healthier lives.

Purpose and values

Our purpose and values unite us across brands and geographies, unlocking our collective power to grow and succeed together.

READ MORE

Sustainability

We want to be a positive force in the world and build a sustainability culture that will enable us to think bigger, go further, and better.

READ MORE

We will grow globally through

- Continued market leading product innovation
- Growing brand awareness globally
- Optimizing tailored, consumer focused go-to-market strategies
- Expanding geographic footprint in large markets with high consumer demand
- Driving profitability through gross margin expansion and operating leverage

Rationale

The company documents we chose to revise were from Amer Sports, a global group of iconic sports and outdoors brands. The external document of choice was a sustainability report and the internal document we chose was a strategic report. Due to the breadth of the documents, we chose to revise and redesign two pages one being a Sustainability “What to Look for in 2025” and the “Double materiality assessment.” In this page there was a typo, on the word “required”. We also cleaned up the syntax and transitions to create a flow, and to make it sound more conversational. In the second page of the sustainability report we chose, “What to look for in 2025”. Again, adding bolder text and restructuring how the information on the page translates. Then, we added headings and bulleted words to create more emphasis on phrases of importance. Bullet points additionally added more organizational structure which we incorporated into our final report. For the internal document, the Strategic Report, we adjusted more aspects of the structure and delivery of information, rather than the visual presentation. In the original report, the information provided did not flow effectively for the reader to understand how the key ideas, concepts, company mission and vision are connected. We changed the order of information to highlight the importance of sustainability, heritage and customer needs to the company, then we transitioned into the profitability strategy goals. We also included some of the statistics and facts that were highlighted on the original document in order to show reiterate the importance of them.

Thank You